

Palladio Partners expands partner roster

Co-Head of Private Equity Sven Czermin becomes partner

Frankfurt/Main, 23 July 2024 – Palladio Partners, the investment boutique specialized in global real assets, is expanding its roster of partners to include Sven Czermin. This brings the current group of partners to ten.

Expansion of Private Equity and Private Debt

Sven Czermin has been with Palladio Partners for four years now and is responsible for the private equity desk and thus for successfully advancing this asset class – along with co-head Holger Roszbach. He previously ran the private equity business at Feri and worked for KPMG's direct investment department. Overall, Sven Czermin can look back on some 15 years' experience in the private equity segment. "Our team belongs to the trailblazers in this asset class in Germany and possesses an outstanding track record. I am delighted to be moving the segment forward based on what we have already achieved," explains Sven Czermin.

The private equity team at Palladio Partners focuses mainly on European and US small caps. Alongside individual advisory mandates, Palladio Partners also offers its customers access to specialist small managers through club deal structures. The concept is very well-received among institutional investors and family offices alike given current market conditions.

Expansion in the partner roster

"The continuous expansion of our company's partners circle ensures that Palladio rests on a broad and stable footing as it continues to grow," comments Michael Rieder, co-founder and MD of Palladio Partners. "The fact that we have made Sven Czermin a partner in the company underscores the relevance of private equity and private debt for Palladio. The segment has performed superbly down through the years and there is great demand for our approach."
